In my opinion, we need to be able to choose who we want to provide services for us. We have different cable companies, electricity providers, long distance carriers, etc. Competition between companies is healthy, and helps regulate pricing. I want to be able to choose who I have my internet through. One of the main things I hate about Verizon is the long wait time you have before you can talk to someone, and before that, you have to make selection after selection on menus. When I call my local provider, I get to talk to a human, and my wait time is never more than a minute or two at most. I vote NO for a Verizon Monopoly.
